Peer Review — the writer's page

This page is just for you. You don't turn it in, and you don't have to fill in every box: jot down whatever helps. Your readers comment in your Google Doc; this is for what they say out loud, and it's a head start on your cover page. While they talk, listen and write. No defending, just "can you say more?"

My ONE thing

Write it before your group meets. A place or a move you can point to, not "is it good?"

What they said about my ONE thing

1 · The opening

Which one pulled them in: A, B, or the original? Where did they start paying attention?

2 · The thread

Did they feel one thread through all six scenes? Did it reach the present and the future?

3 · Where they got lost

A gap between scenes, a jump, a place they stopped caring.

4 · The close

New meaning, or does it just stop?

What's working

The line or scene they remembered. Keep it.

The move or two I'll try before Tuesday night
